SATURDAY, April 25th

7:30a- 8:30a	Breakfast
8:30a- 12:00p	Concurrent Sessions
8:30a- 10:00a	The Financial Crisis and the Attack on Sound Money
	Antony Fisher's book, Must History Repeat Itself (1974), contained a list of eleven priorities for economic reform. The top two concerned eliminating government meddling in the value of money. During the low-inflation "long boom" of 1983-2000, the topic of Sound Money seemed to lose its salience, but the troubling monetary and fiscal policy responses to today's financial crisis remind us of the fundamental importance of Sound Money to the cause of freedom. This session will provide both constructive policy ideas, and thoughts on how think tanks can improve the policy debate.
8:30a- 10:00a	Managing a Think Tank in Hard Times
	Moderator:Sally Pipes-Pacific Research Institute, USA
	Speakers:
	Michel Kelly-Gagnon, Institut Economique de Montreal, Canada
	Kris Mauren-Acton Institute, USA Robin Sitoula- Prosperity Foundation, Nepal
	Running a think tank is always a challenging endeavor, and the current financial crisis is not making our jobs any easier. This session will provide practical lessons from think tank leaders, including some who have weathered difficult storms in the past.
10:00a- 10:30a	Coffee Break
10:30a-	Hispanic Americans and the Free Society

Hispanic Americans and the Free Society
